Global Health Institute 2014 Faculty and Staff Travel Awards

Description:

Global Health Institute Faculty and Staff Travel Awards are available for UW faculty and staff who are Global Health Institute (GHI) affiliates, to undertake international travel during 2014 that is related to educational & research activities, especially those involved in development of global health courses and/or initiation of field experiences and field research which pertain directly to the mission of the GHI as outlined in the criteria below. Applications must involve low/middle income countries or populations and funds will not be awarded to attend meetings to present past work.

Unfortunately, students, residents, and fellows are not eligible for these awards.

Application:

Letters of application should be submitted to the Global Health Institute at teegland@wisc.edu. Please note: Previous Center for Global Health or GHI Travel Award recipients are not eligible to apply.

General Information and Proposal/Request: Please use the attached application form.

Provide an abbreviated CV along with the application.

Individuals may request up to $2500 each.

Please include all application materials in a single email.

Other: Applicants should indicate other potential sources of funding besides personal funds.
If there is supporting documentation for the project (invitation letter, IRB approval, protocol) this may also be provided.

Please forward to: Global Health Institute
4256 Health Sciences Learning Center
750 Highland Ave.
Madison, WI 53705

Deadlines:
All applications and supporting materials must be received in the Global Health Institute office no later than December 10, 2013. Decisions and announcements of recipients will be made by December 20, 2013.
Criteria:
Grantees must be registered as Global Health Institute Affiliates. To register, visit http://ghi.wisc.edu/about/join-us/.

Award decisions will be made by the Global Health Institute faculty and staff.
Preference will be given to proposals that:
1) address important global health issues
2) have potential to expand UW interdisciplinary education and research programs
3) have potential for an ongoing relationship/partnership with the host country

Grantee Obligations:

When travel is completed, grant recipients must submit their flight itinerary/receipt to the Global Health Institute in order to receive the funding award. Upon submission of itinerary, entire award amount will be sent to grantee’s department for disbursement.

Grant recipients are expected to provide a brief written report (report form provided by GHI) to the Global Health Institute within 60 days of travel completion, which should include the following:

- Description of activities
- Objectives achieved
- List of contacts

All travel grant recipients must agree to comply with University of Wisconsin rules for travel & international travel:
http://ghi.wisc.edu/global-health-policies/
http://www.uwsa.edu/fadmin/fppp/fppp36.htm

Grantees should expect to be invited to present results from their activities at a future GHI event, such as a collaborative symposium, seminar or meeting.

Manuscripts, abstracts, or other publications generated as a direct result of this support should contain acknowledgement of this support from:
The University of Wisconsin-Madison Global Health Institute.
