Third Annual African Studies Symposium
Sustainability in the African World:
A Call for Collective Action

KEYNOTE:
“Sustainability through global-local school-community-university partnership in Post-conflict Sierra Leone”

ALHAJI N’JAI, Ph.D.
Scientist / Toxicologist, Proctor & Gamble
Research Fellow, Univ of Wisconsin, Madison

Dr. N’Jai is also founder and chief strategist of Project 1808, Inc (www.project1808.org), a Madison, Wisconsin, and Sierra Leone-based 501 (c3) nonprofit organization dedicated to building capacity for sustainable development in rural Sierra Leone through school-community-university partnerships.

RSVP:
PAS Department (818) 677-3311
Tom Spencer-Walters (818) 677-7819

Tuesday, April 22
9:00 am to 4:30 pm
USU Northridge Center
Earth Day 2014

Presented by the African Studies Interdisciplinary Minor
California State University, Northridge

Sponsored by the Office of the Provost, College of Social & Behavioral Sciences, Pan African Studies, Institute of Sustainability, Gender and Women’s Studies