

Global Health Affiliates

The Global Health Institute (GHI) aims to coordinate, strengthen and expand global health activities within the University community and beyond through sustained partnerships and a network of Global Health Affiliates.

Affiliates support and benefit from a rich spectrum of global health educational opportunities through seminars and an annual symposium. The GHI will also catalyze and support interdisciplinary global health research, exchanges and service projects.

Global Health Affiliates are UW faculty, staff, alumni and others in the community who are interested and involved in global health. Affiliates will contribute to building a community of teachers, students and scholars engaged in understanding and addressing global health challenges. All registered affiliates will receive invitations and updates on activities of the GHI.
