

Join the Center for Community and Nonprofit Studies at a day-long event on

FUNDING & SOCIAL CHANGE

Tues,
April 17
2018

Community and nonprofit efforts are increasingly relied upon to mitigate social problems and meet basic needs, and their educational, organizing, and advocacy work has never been more important in addressing systemic problems. However, traditional giving practices have been challenged for their efficacy in creating real change, and securing funding for these efforts continues to be a competitive challenge. Philanthropists, foundations, business leaders, and regulatory entities are expanding on traditional giving strategies. Join Wisconsin scholars, practitioners, and community members in this historic moment to explore assumptions, patterns, values, and possibilities related to funding and social change.

Register by April 1st

Morning Session 9am-12pm

UW South Partnership Space

Panel presentation and conversation
"Exploring assumptions and values about funding and social change"

Afternoon Session 12-5pm

UW School of Human Ecology

Community Partner Info Fair

Keynote Speakers:

Penn Loh -- Tufts University's Public Policy and Community Practice Program

Tonya Allen -- President of the Skillman Foundation in Detroit

Breakout sessions on key areas of nonprofit and community work and scholarship

Evening Session 5:30-7pm

Downtown Madison

Celebration and Wrap Up

Wrap up the day with an opportunity to connect with speakers and other attendees, and explore possibilities for working together to promote positive social change through thoughtful funding!

Center for Community and Nonprofit Studies
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

Helen Bader Institute for NONPROFIT MANAGEMENT
at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Like us to get event updates!

